

Employment and Support Allowance Explained

Employment and Support Allowance (ESA) Explained

Employment and Support Allowance, or ESA, is an income replacement benefit to assist people with their living costs if they're too unwell or disabled to work full time.

This guide is designed to help you determine whether or not you're eligible for ESA and what your entitlement may be. However, working out benefits entitlements can be complex. Adroit has a welfare benefits adviser who is able to discuss this with you, advise you of your entitlements and help you through application process.

Should you have any queries, please contact our welfare benefits adviser on 0330 995 6838.

The Basics

An introduction

New Style Employment and Support Allowance is a wage replacement benefit for individuals who are ill, disabled or have a health condition that prevents them or limits them from working.

To qualify, you need to have paid or been credited with enough National Insurance contributions in the two full tax years prior to you making a claim for the benefit.

Any gaps in your National Insurance contributions within this time will remove eligibility.

Any Statutory Sick Pay needs to have ceased.

New-Style ESA is a fortnightly payment.

Your savings and Income do not affect how much New Style ESA you will be paid. However, personal pensions can affect the amount you receive.

Please see page 16 for information about other forms of ESA under Legacy Benefits.

Credits Only Claims

You can make a 'credits only' claim for ESA when you are not eligible for payments of ESA. This kind of claim is made when you wish to still receive National Insurance credits.

These claims help avoid gaps in NI contributions which could affect your State Pension entitlement.

They are also useful for future benefits claims, particularly for young disabled people who may be approaching further education and who may wish to claim Universal Credit in the future.

What are the additional Components?

If your application for ESA is successful, and it's agreed that you're unable to work full time as a result of your condition or disability, you'll be put into one of two groups.

Support Group - You'll be put into this group if it's unlikely that your condition will improve enough in the future for you to be able to work.

Work-Related Activity Group - You'll be put into this group if it's likely that your condition will improve enough in the future for you to be able to work.

If you receive ESA-CB and are put in the Work-Related Activity Group, you'll only receive the benefit for 52 weeks. After that, you'll only be able to apply for another income replacement benefit if your medical condition changes or if you've replenished your National Insurance contributions.

If you're placed in the Support Group, it doesn't matter if you receive ESA-CB your benefit will continue for as long as your condition or disability continues.

What are the benefit rates?

The amount of ESA benefit you receive will depend on a variety of criteria, such as:

- Your age
- Your status (i.e. if you're single, a lone parent or a part of a couple)
- Who you live with
- Your income and financial situation
- Which Additional Component you receive
- The severity of your disability

These figures can change from year to year, but if you would like an idea of what you might receive, our Welfare Team will be able to assist you with the calculations.

Can you claim other benefits when receiving EAS?

ESA-NS: You may receive Universal Credit as a top-up depending on your circumstances. If you get both, your ESA-NS will be deducted from your Universal Credit payment. You're not guaranteed extra money.

The Application

Where do you start?

To apply for ESA generally you must apply online: www.gov.uk/how-to-claim-new-style-esa

Alternatively, you can telephone the Department for Work and Pensions, DWP, and provide the following information:

- Your name, date of birth, National Insurance Number, address and contact details
- Your GP's name, address and phone number
- Details about your partner, if you have one, and anyone else that lives with you
- Details of any work you and/or your partner do and/or details of when you stopped working
- Details of any savings you have
- Details of any other benefits you receive
- Details of why you wish to make a claim
- Your bank details

You cannot apply online if you are applying as an appointee on someone's behalf.

Jobcentre Plus new claims helpline:

Telephone: 0800 055 6688
Textphone: 0800 328 1344

You, the applicant, need to be present when the application is made, unless you're applying on behalf of someone else as their Appointee or Deputy.

If the applicant is not present, you can request that application form ESA 3 is sent to you. This form covers the same questions above and needs to be completed and returned to the DWP within 30 days.

What happens once you've made the application ESA 3?

Once the DWP have processed your application, your claim will start to be paid at the basic rate. This is called the 'assessment phase'.

During the assessment phase you'll receive a Capability for Work Questionnaire, form ESA 50. This second form is about your health condition, illness, or disability and how it affects you.

This form comes in three parts:

Part 1: The first part of this form is about you, your condition, any medication or treatment, and your GP, therapist or carer. You're able to ask them to write a supporting letter and send this with the application form.

Part 2: The second part of this form asks how your condition affects your physical and mental capabilities.

Part 3: The third and final part of this form relates to you attending a medical assessment.

ESA 50 - How Your Condition Affects You

Other than the medical assessment, what criteria determines your level of ESA?

The second part of form ESA 50 sets out a list of descriptors which you must choose to describe how your condition affects you, both physically and mentally.

The DWP will use this to assess your work capabilities.

Remember when you answer these questions you must describe how you are “most” of the time – so 50% or more of the time.

Try to be accurate and use examples where you can. So for example, if for mobility the best descriptor was d) you could write:

“I’m able to walk short distances. However, after around 100 meters I start to feel significant discomfort and need to stop for a moment. Approximately four days out of seven I am unable to mobilise for more than 200 meters within a reasonable time scale. This means I’m unable to walk my children to school or visit the local shops.”

In order to help you understand how the effects of your condition are assessed, the next section of this brochure has the descriptors which you’ll be asked about in form ESA 50, together with the point structure.

The categories of descriptors are:

- Physical capabilities - These are on a points structure to determine your level of ESA.
- Mental, cognitive and intellectual function - These are on a points structure to determine your level of ESA.
- Work-Related Activity Group / Support Group criteria - These are not on a points structure but determine which support group you will be put in.

What should you remember when completing the second part of form ESA 50?

When completing the second part of form ESA 50 about how your condition affects you, you should use the following as a checklist:

- Describe how you are most of the time – so 50% or more of the time. Try to be accurate.
- Use the criteria set out in the tables to help you answer the questions.
- Use examples to illustrate the difficulties you have and how that affects your day to day life.
- Make sure the form is completed and returned to the DWP within 30 days.
- If you need to have the medical assessment at your home, make sure you request this and provide a reason why you need to be seen at home.
- We would always recommend that you make a copy of the form before you submit it.
- Ask someone who knows you well to check your form and accompany you to any assessments or follow up meetings.
- If you’re unable to attend your medical assessment you must let the assessment centre know before your appointment.

ESA 50 - The Medical Assessment

Do you have to attend the medical assessment?

Do you have to attend a medical assessment? Medical assessments are carried out by independent medical experts rather than the DWP and are an important part of determining whether you qualify for ESA. The final part of application form ESA 50 questions your ability to attend a medical assessment and if you have any special requirements to enable you to attend.

If attending a medical assessment may cause you difficulties or anxiety, you must ensure that you inform the DWP of the circumstances.

If you have a good reason not to attend, you can request that the medical assessment be conducted at your home. If you've asked for special consideration not to attend, the DWP may ask for confirmation from your GP, therapist or someone who knows you well.

What happens at the medical assessment?

We strongly recommend you take someone with you. This could be a family member, support worker or someone who knows you well and is confident to tell a stranger about how your condition affects you. The appointment will usually last from around 40 to 60 minutes.

The person who assesses you should have received a copy of your completed ESA 50 form and supporting documentation. We advise that you ask the assessor what experience of your condition they have and make a note of this in case you need to refer to it later.

They'll ask you a number of questions about how your condition affects you and may also ask you to do some simple and gentle exercises. It's important that you answer honestly and if you feel any discomfort during your exercises, you must tell the assessor.

Please note...

You must attend the medical assessment or inform the assessment centre why you're unable to attend.

If you fail to attend and don't notify the assessment centre, your claim may be turned down.

Are there circumstances where you would be automatically classed as having limited capacity to work without attending a medical?

Although no one is exempt from the medical assessment, there are some circumstances where you may automatically be classed as having limited capacity for work. They are:

- Patients with a terminal illness who are not expected to live more than six months
- Patients receiving chemotherapy (unless it is via oral medication)
- People likely to start chemotherapy within six months
- People who are under notice as a carrier of, or had contact with, certain infectious diseases
- Expectant mothers where there may be serious risk to their or their baby's health if they work
- Expectant mothers entitled to Maternity Allowance and within the Maternity Allowance period
- Expectant mothers or mothers who have recently given birth, not entitled to Statutory Maternity Pay or Maternity Allowance, from six weeks before to two weeks after the birth
- Patients who are hospital inpatients and meet the other criteria
- Patients receiving treatment by way of haemodialysis, plasmapheresis, radiotherapy or total parenteral nutrition, in any week when the person receives treatment or has a day of recovery from treatment. In the first week of any such treatment, they are only treated as having limited capability for work if they have:
 - two days of treatment
 - two days of recovery

- one day of treatment and one day of recovery
- the days do not have to be consecutive

What happens after the medical assessment?

Following the medical assessment, the assessor will provide the DWP with an assessment report which will make recommendations as to whether you have capacity to work, have limited capacity to work or are unfit for work.

The DWP will use this report along with your application form and any evidence you have sent them to decide whether you should be placed in the Work-Related Activity Group or the Support Group.

Once the decision is made, you'll receive a letter from the DWP advising you of which support group you have been placed in, and which type of ESA benefit you will receive.

What are the main points to remember?

We would advise you to remember the following when attending the medical assessment:

- Unless you have a valid reason for not attending, or you are automatically classed as having limited capacity to work, you must attend the medical assessment.
- You must ensure that you notify the Health Assessment Advisory Service on the number on your appointment letter if you're unable to attend an appointment. If you don't notify them that you can't attend or don't show up, you'll automatically be classed as fit for work.
- You should take someone to the assessment with you.
- You should ask the assessor about their experience of your condition and make a note.

Legacy Benefits

Since the introduction of Universal Credit New Style ESA is the only type of ESA that can now be claimed by new claimants.

Previously, there was Income Related ESA and Contribution-Based ESA as well.

Despite both income related and contribution-based ESA still being in existence to those who were originally claiming them, they are soon to become obsolete as part of the UK Government's welfare reform to migrate those still in receipt of Income Related ESA over to Universal Credit.

New Style ESA is essentially the same as Contribution-based ESA, it works in the same way as contribution-based ESA as well as working hand-in-hand with Universal Credit.

What is Capital to be Disregarded?

If you've sustained a personal injury and your settlement is either controlled by a Deputy or is placed in a Personal Injury Trust, it will be classed as CAPITAL TO BE DISREGARDED and can't be included in any means test for benefits.
